

July Newsletter

Welcome to the July edition of Evolving Practice news. Find out about the work we've been doing over the past few months.

New Guidelines Published

We've written some guidelines to help you write up your patient focus and public involvement experiences. They explain what we're looking for in each section, and will ensure your case study is interesting and informative for other people.

NHS Scotland 60th Anniversary

We were invited to speak at the 60th Anniversary event in Glasgow's SECC on 24th June. As well as introducing Evolving Practice, the authors of three of our featured case studies gave a short presentation on their work. This generated lively discussion and we look forward to new case studies being submitted.

Featured Case Study

Are you really listening?

Individual and group storytelling sessions enabled black and minority ethnic people to share their experiences of stigma, discrimination and resilience toward mental health problems within their communities.
